Clarification on Changes to Banner Codes for Specializations

Background on curricular terminology

Specializations are variations of majors and are approved through a specific curriculum process in which they are identified as specializations and designed to meet University-defined parameters. Specializations appear on student transcripts. Programs with specializations award one degree in one major, but may have multiple specializations designating specific credentials. Specializations appear in GRAD and are generated there by Banner. Liberal Studies is a broad umbrella degree with multiple specializations, including Math/Science, Humanities/Social Science, and Literacy Studies. Specializations can be converted to full degree programs but must go through the new program approval process, including state approval. Some
