for a variety of reasons some freshman undergraduate students perform very poorly when they first come to the University and end up leaving with a weak academic record such students may wish to return later having matured or otherwise resolved the issues that caused their earlier poor performance these students would be discouraged or prohibited from returning to Rowan if the earlier poor performance remained part of their P and since they could go elsewhere and choose not to report their previous academic record that undergraduate students who started at Rowan University as native freshmen earned a cumulative P less than during their first academic year at Rowan University left the University after their first academic year and have not attended classes at Rowan University for a minimum of two consecutive years may apply to have their grades forgiven and their P restarted at

ThecumulativePthat could be forgiven will be less thanThe grades for aattempted credits could be forgiven based on the normal maximumnumber of credits permitted student requesting P forgiveness is subject to existing procedures and timelines for re registering or reapplying as appropriate n addition the student must provide a written statement requesting P forgiveness and presenting evidence of readiness and or continuing progress such as successful completion of credits at a community college or another accredited institution regular employment or military service. The student may be asked to provide documentation of the problem that contributed to the original poor performance and or actions taken to remedy the problem.

Rowan University courses in which the student received a or better will automatically be accepted as transfer credits. The grades will not count toward P The credits may count toward graduation but will not count toward the required minimum of credits taken in residency o credit will be granted for courses in which a or lower was earned nterim policy change regarding hardship withdrawals and resolution from PP ormally withdrawal from a course results in a W on the student's transcript with no refund and no impact on student financial aid status owever a withdrawal during the last four weeks of the semester termed a "hardship withdrawal" actually functions as if the student were dropping the course. The course disappears from the student's record and if the student drops below full time status results in the student's financial aid being revoked

This is not the intended effect of withdrawing from a course so the Provost's flice is instituting an interim policy change and has requested that PP bring a formal resolution to the Senate for approval The interim policy change and requested resolution will address this issue by specifying the following

The term "hardship withdrawal" will be changed to "late withdrawal" ate withdrawal will be treated as other withdrawals currently are resulting in a W on the student's transcript and no impact on financial aid status

This may also include discussion of approvals for late withdrawals whether the student's advisor the ean of Students etc should be involved

PP will bring a resolution to the next meeting of the Senate xec n the meantime please let me know of any questions or concerns
