

Senate Resolution for Standard Teaching Load

In order to continue developing the research capabilities of Rowan University, 18 credits per academic year must be considered a standard teaching load. Faculty with high scholarly and/or creative activity must receive an adjusted load whereby they teach less than 18 credits per year. We believe this change is essential to furthering our research capacity and enhancing the visibility of Rowan University in the upper echelons of academic research.

